

Costa Mesa introduces City's first Poet Laureate

The City of Costa Mesa announced that local poet and University of California Irvine instructor Danielle Hanson has been named the first Poet Laureate in the City's history.

"I am honored and excited to have been selected for this role, and I look forward to working together with a vibrant Costa Mesa community of local artists and writers to help get poetry into public spaces around the City," Hanson said.

Mayor John Stephens welcomed Hanson to Costa Mesa, and the Council plans to introduce her at the Tuesday, April 1 meeting.

"Not every City has a Poet Laureate, and I'm pleased to hear that we have one now," Mayor Stephens said. "Poetry is an important literary art form that provides a wonderful complement to the City's existing performing and visual arts."

City Manager Lori Ann Farrell Harrison also is happy to have Hanson aboard.

"As the City of the Arts, it is only fitting that we would have a Poet Laureate," Farrell Harrison said. "I look forward to her upcoming poetry events and I know the public will greatly benefit from this exposure to the arts and classic literature that is not offered in every City. Congrats to our Parks & Community Services team for making this happen."

According to the Cambridge Dictionary, a Poet Laureate is typically someone named to that position by the government, the royal family, or an organization, who is asked to write poems about important public occasions.

Hanson views her role to be, in part, a cheerleader for poetry in the community. She is a believer in the power of poetry to build empathy, to make people feel heard, and to create a sense of connection and wonder.

“The Poet Laureate position is an ideal platform to get poetry out where people already are. In the past, I have collaborated with artists and arts organizations,” Hanson said. But there are even more things that can happen when you team up artists with local governments. Costa Mesa is a real leader in this regard.”

The Poet Laureate appointment is a two-year stint and in addition to creating new poetry, Hanson plans to hold public workshops where people can learn and experience the craft of creating poetry. These workshops will be for writers and non-writers—no previous experience is needed.

Hanson, who has been writing poetry for over 30 years, said this position is both humbling and exciting, and she relishes the idea of being able to contribute to exposing more people to poetry.

Hanson teaches poetry at UC Irvine and she is a past winner of the both the Codhill Press and Elixir Press Prizes in poetry. In addition, she is the marketing director for Sundress Publications and she has authored two books, “Ambushing Water,” which was a finalist for Georgia Author of the Year and “Fraying Edge of Sky,” winner of the Codhill Poetry Prize. A third book “The Night Is What It Eats,” is coming out this fall. Click here to read some of her poems <https://www.citricacid.ink/issue-13/two-poems>.

Hanson is a graduate of the University of Tennessee Chattanooga, where she double majored in humanities with a concentration in creative writing and mathematics. She is married to the UCI dean of engineering, Magnus Egerstedt, and they have college-aged identical twin daughters who have the goal to be circus performers, she said.

Police Chief Ron Lawrence Announces retirement after 35-year career in law enforcement

After a successful 35-year career serving California as a police professional, with over a third of that time as the leader of a department, Chief of Police Ronald A. Lawrence has announced that he intends to retire this summer.

Chief Lawrence began his career in 1989 and promoted up the ranks with different law enforcement agencies in California, including serving as police chief in the cities of Citrus Heights and Rocklin before his appointment as police chief in Costa Mesa on Sept. 7, 2021.

While in Costa Mesa, he is credited with introducing innovative police technologies to assist crime fighting efforts, building trust throughout the community, developing police personnel for future leadership positions, and reducing crime in what was already a safe city.

Mayor John Stephens applauded Chief Lawrence's commitment to Costa Mesa.

"During his time as the top leader of our police department, Chief Lawrence led the organization through a staffing transition as a result of key retirements, and he has brought the organization to a whole new level," Mayor Stephens said, adding, "He introduced a responsive culture which is highly regarded in the law enforcement profession, and became a trusted and respected professional and neighbor in our community.”

City Manager Lori Ann Farrell Harrison also expressed her sincere appreciation for Chief Lawrence.

“It is with mixed emotions that I accept Chief Lawrence’s intent to retire at the end of June after an amazing and successful 35-year career dedicating his life to the service of others,” City Manager Farrell Harrison said. “He led our remarkable police department, filled with dedicated professionals, who have built and earned the trust of our community. Chief Lawrence will be missed, and I thank him for transitioning the police department to an even higher level of performance.”

Reflecting on his time as police chief, Lawrence shared, “When I was hired for this position, I was asked to transition the organization for the future, build a professionally diverse police department, and maintain the already positive reputation of the Costa Mesa PD,” Lawrence said. “I could not be more pleased with what we have accomplished together, and I have full confidence that our police staff is well positioned to guide the department well into the future.”

Lawrence thanked the City Manager, Mayor, City Council, City staff and the police department for their support.

“I have profound gratefulness for City Manager Lori Ann Farrell Harrison, who trusted me and gave me the autonomy to lead the police department. I appreciate her leadership. I also have tremendous gratitude for our Mayor John Stephens and the entire City Council for their faith and belief in me to lead the police department. Our City Manager and City Council have done, and continue to do, remarkable work to maintain Costa Mesa as a great place to live and work, and I know each one of them has a servant’s heart which makes our community better in more ways than one. Costa Mesa is fortunate to have such quality leadership, including my colleagues in other City Departments, who pour their dedication into our community. I am truly fortunate to have worked with such outstanding professionals.”

Chief Lawrence lauded public safety in Costa Mesa, giving high praise to the infrastructure and leadership put in place by the City Manager, City Council, and Fire Chief Dan Stefano.

“Public safety in Costa Mesa continues to evolve into a really great place, thanks to Lori Ann Farrell-Harrison, Fire Chief Stefano and his staff, our Costa Mesa police professionals, and our City Council. Thanks to the emphasis on public safety and the continued support from our City Council, the safety and well-being of our public remains a top priority in Costa Mesa,” Chief Lawrence said.

In addition to his years as a police chief, Lawrence has served on many statewide boards and commissions, including the Western States Information Network (WISN), the Public Policy Institute of California (PPIC), and the California Police Chiefs Association (CPCA) – elected as CPCA President in 2019 representing all 335 municipal police chiefs in California as the liaison to the Governor, State Attorney General and legislators at the Capitol.

Lawrence said he made his decision to retire to spend more time with his wife Jennifer, and to allow new police leadership to grow.

“It is difficult to leave a profession I love, but I look forward to spending more time with my best friend and supportive wife Jennifer, and our family, who are always there for me,” Lawrence said. “I know I leave the City on great terms, and after building upon a strong and diverse team I recognize that it’s time to allow future leaders to push the organization to even greater heights. I am so proud of Deputy Chief LaPointe, our Executive Staff, and our entire PD team for what we have accomplished together.”

Chief Lawrence and his wife Jennifer will still call Costa Mesa home, choosing to continue to live in our community because they consider Costa Mesa safe, vibrant, and friendly.

The decision to select a new chief of police to succeed Chief Lawrence will be made by City Manager Farrell Harrison in the coming months. Chief Lawrence will remain as the police chief for the next three months, announcing that his last day with Costa Mesa will be Friday, June 27, 2025.

Public Works welcomes Paul Martin as the new Transportation Services Manager

Public Works Director Raja Sethuraman announced Paul Martin, a seasoned transportation professional, is the City's new Transportation Services Manager.

With over 25 years of experience in both the public and private sectors, Martin brings extensive expertise in all areas of Transportation, including Active Transportation, Planning and Operations.

In his new role, Martin will oversee the City's traffic operations, transportation planning and active transportation programs.

Prior to joining Costa Mesa, Paul served as the first Active Transportation Coordinator for the Orange County Transportation Authority.

He also worked as the Transportation Manager at City of Placentia and Active Transportation Manager at Mark Thomas.

Paul is registered as a Civil Engineer and Traffic Engineer with the State of California.

Martin holds a Bachelor's of Science Degree in Civil Engineering from UC Irvine.

Management Analyst Sergio Escobar is latest recipient of City Manager Leadership Award

City Manager Lori Ann Farrell Harrison named Management Analyst Sergio Escobar as the City Manager Leadership Award for the month of March.

“When I was first hired, the City Council tasked me with building a strong relationship with our Latino community,” Farrell Harrison said. “Sergio has been at the forefront of that effort. It is such a blessing that he came to the City Manager’s Office. He has done nothing but excel since that time. He is so beloved by all of us. I am so thrilled to present him with this award.”

Escobar started with City of Costa Mesa in 2021, serving as a City Council Aide and promoted to Management Analyst in 2024. Before joining the City of Costa Mesa, Escobar began his public service journey in various public agencies such as the Orange County Transportation Authority, City of Newport Beach and in his hometown, the City of Santa Ana.

In his current capacity, Escobar is key member of the Constituent Services Team, serving as the liaison to the Mayor and City Council, he provides a superior level of customer service by collaborating with city departments to respond to community concerns efficiently and effectively, ensuring that residents receive the support and assistance they need.

His passion for community outreach and engagement is evident in his work across some of the city's most underserved neighborhoods, including Shalimar, Filmore, Mendoza, and Center Street. Escobar has built trust and made strong connections with community groups such as Costa Mesa Unidos, Las Promotoras, and Resilience OC.

Beyond his strong efforts to uplift the community, Escobar serves as a key liaison to the Mayor and City Council, assisting with initiatives that support residents and create meaningful policy changes.

A prime example of his exemplary work in promoting inclusive and equitable access to housing and social services. His efforts to spread awareness about Project Food Box have helped many seniors and families struggling with food insecurity receive essential support. With a deep commitment to serving the most vulnerable residents, Escobar has also played an instrumental role in the development and launching of the City's Tenant Protection and Rental Assistance program, ensuring that tenants understand their rights and have access to necessary resources and services.

Most notably, Escobar provided critical support to the Shalimar Park Expansion Project and Relocation Plan, which presented the City with a unique opportunity to acquire a property adjacent to the Shalimar Park, allowing for the possible expansion of the park's footprint in a park deficient neighborhood.

Additionally, the project includes the relocation of existing residents, improving their housing needs by providing housing units at the City owned James Street property units and providing financial assistance to those tenants wishing to relocate. Escobar's approach and tact in handling the sensitivity of the tenants has made it a seamless and thoughtful process.

His compassion and empathy for the Costa Mesa community has gained him respect and recognition amongst residents, City Council, and his peers.

He has a bachelor's degree in public administration and is in his final semester pursuing a master's degree in public administration, both from Cal State Fullerton.

Flood Watch will be in effect from 10 p.m. Wednesday, March 12 through 6 p.m. Thursday March 13

As a late winter storm is predicted to hit Costa Mesa and the OC Region, a Flood Watch will be in effect from 10 p.m. Wednesday, March 12 through 6 p.m. Thursday March 13. Here are some simple tips to help stay safe:

- Stay informed: Keep an eye on local weather updates, and get notifications from AlertOC.com
- Avoid areas prone to flooding such as 17th Street and Pomona Avenue.

- No Parking from 6 p.m. Wednesday to 6 p.m. Thursday near the intersection of 17th and Pomona. Signs are posted.
- Avoid flooded areas: Never attempt to drive or walk through flooded streets. It's not worth the risk.
- Secure your property: If you live in a flood-prone area, consider sandbagging vulnerable areas around your home.
- Have an emergency kit ready: Flashlight, extra batteries, non-perishable food, and water are always good to have on hand.
- Check your drains: Clear leaves and debris from your gutters and drains to prevent blockages.
- Stay safe, stay dry, and let's all look out for one another!

Chief Plans Examiner Charles Chamoun is the latest recipient of the City Manager Leadership Award

Assistant City Manager Cecilia Gallardo-Daly presented the City Manager Leadership Award for February to Chief Plans Examiner Charles Chamoun.

"Charles has a lot of fans here at City Hall, and I'm one of them," Gallardo-Daly said. "Charles is known for delivering customer service that exceeds expectation. Anyone who visits the second floor knows him as a problem solver and solution-oriented individual who treats the public and city staff with respect and courtesy."

He first began working for the City of Costa Mesa Public Works

Department in January of 1991 as an Engineering Technician I. He later transferred to Development Services where he was eventually promoted to Chief Plan Examiner.

Due to his 34 years of experience, his institutional knowledge is so important to the City and fellow employees. It is very common for staff to go to him for clarification and explanation of Department practices and policies, and how they can best be applied.

Chamoun deeply cares about our community and residents. Most recently, he has been monitoring and occasionally driving by the South Coast Drive leaning fence wall, which has been an issue lately.

In the early years, the wall's deflection was nearly 3 to 4 inches. However, in 2024, he noticed the excessive deflection of the fence wall and reported to the Building Official where immediate action was put in place.

After graduating college, Chamoun moved to Maryland where he got a job in Civil Engineering with emphasis on Surveying, Hydrology design, and Street improvements. After two years, he decided to move back to California and worked with a private Civil Engineering firm to further enhance and gain more experience in Civil Engineering.

Chamoun has a bachelor's degree in Civil Engineering from California State Long Beach.

Recreation Supervisor Tiana

Asmine receives City Manager Leadership Award

City Manager Lori Ann Farrell Harrison has awarded the City Manager Leadership Award for the month of January to Recreation Supervisor Tiana Asmine.

“Since arriving in Costa Mesa in 2021, Tiana has been instrumental in helping to bring classes and events back to life after the pandemic when we needed it most,” Farrell Harrison said. “This award is proof that she is valued by her colleagues and I am grateful for her dedication to the public and her hard work does not go unnoticed.”

Asmine put in an extraordinary amount of time and effort into our rebranding and redesign of our Recreation Guide which is now known throughout the City as THE SPOTLIGHT!

She taught herself all aspects of the photoshop software to be able to enhance our magazine continuously. She also oversees the award-winning SMART camp program which is a partnership with the school district to contract with over 25 teachers to provide Sports, Music and Arts to over 400 Costa Mesa youth.

Prior to coming to Costa Mesa, Asmine worked in the City of Riverside, where she was a Recreation Coordinator overseeing contract classes, camps, and recreation center programs.

She has been working in recreation for the past 15 years at various agencies which include the City of Lake Forest and City of Fountain Valley, where she gained extensive experience in special events, youth programs, aquatics, facility rentals and contract classes.

She has her Bachelor's Degree in Women's Studies from Cal State Fullerton and is in the process of getting her Masters in Recreation Administration at Long Beach State.

Lead Equipment Mechanic Evan Rodriguez receives this month's City Manager Leadership Award

City Manager Lori Ann Farrell Harrison presented the City Manager's Leadership Award for the month of December to Lead Equipment Mechanic Evan Rodriguez.

"I was impressed to learn that Evan has created an atmosphere and culture of excellence and customer service by cross training other members of his team on how to repair public safety apparatus and other vehicles in the fleet," Farrell Harrison said. "This allows our staff to expand their knowledge base and skill sets to better serve our customers. I am grateful for his dedication and am thrilled to give him this award."

As the Lead Mechanic, Evan consistently exceeds expectations in his role while being focused in building a team of skilled mechanics who support all City Departments. His attention to detail, problem-solving skills, and ability to meet deadlines have been instrumental in the success of Equipment Maintenance

Rodriguez is a great collaborator and always willing to help his colleagues. He's a big believer in cross-training which allows for the sharing of knowledge about all City equipment and helps the entire Equipment Maintenance team grow their expertise. Rodriguez strongly encourages all the mechanics to attend training.

He's always looking for ways to improve and brings in new ideas. His proactive approach has boosted efficiency and productivity within our team. Rodriguez's positive and can-do attitude is contagious. He maintains a high level of confidence and professionalism, even during challenging times.

Some specific examples of Rodriguez's accomplishments are successfully leading the team of mechanics developing and implementing a new way of approaching Fire apparatus maintenance. This has been accomplished through in-house cross-training and encouraging staff to attend state certified Fire Mechanic classes. Due to these efforts, along with Rodriguez's approachable style, the City now has multiple mechanics that are able to address the unique demands of the Fire Dept.

Rodriguez's commitment to providing excellent customer service has resulted in numerous positive reports, increased the reliability of our vehicles and equipment and has demonstrated an increased level of professionalism of Equipment Maintenance.

Rodriguez is a recent father so hasn't had much free time lately but does enjoy listening to music and spending time with his family.

Costa Mesa voters re-elect Stephens and Gameros and add new Council Members Buley and Pettis

A new Costa Mesa City Council was sworn in on Thursday, Dec. 5 with voters re-electing Mayor John Stephens and Council Member Loren Gameros to District 2 and choosing new District 1 Council Member Mike Buley and new District 6 Council Member Jeff Pettis.

The new Council joins existing Council Members Andrea Marr, Arlis Reynolds and Manuel Chavez. The new Council also voted 6-0 for Manuel Chavez to be the next Mayor Pro Tem.

“I’d like to give a welcome to our two new council members Mike Buley and Jeff Pettis and a congratulations to Mayor Stephens and Council Member Gameros for winning their second terms,” City Manager Lori Ann Farrell Harrison said. “Additionally, I want to thank our outgoing Council Members Jeff Harlan and Don Harper for their dedication over the last four years.”

This is Stephens’ second term as Mayor after successfully running for the post in November of 2022.

“I am honored that the residents of Costa Mesa have trusted me with another two-year term as Mayor of this great City,” Mayor Stephens said. “With the help of my Council colleagues, we have already accomplished some great things and I plan to do even more in these next two years.”

For more information please visit Mayor Stephens’ webpage here.

Council Member Gameros ran unopposed for his District 2 seat, which he was first elected to in November of 2020. He was the first person to represent that district, which was created in a city-wide vote in 2018.

“It was a great honor to be elected to represent District 2 four years ago and I have enjoyed my service to the community,” Gameros said. “To run unopposed to me was a vote of confidence in my leadership and I look forward to the next four years.”

A 44-year resident of Costa Mesa, Gameros has more than two decades of experience with the Operating Engineers Training Trust Local 12, a nonprofit labor organization where he serves as an instructor of building inspectors.

Click here for more information on Council Member Gameros.

New Council Member Buley was elected to represent District 1, where he and his wife, Adriana, moved to 21 years ago and have raised three children there.

“I feel a responsibility to my family, friends, neighbors, and supporters to work hard during my term to ensure that Costa Mesa continues to grow and thrive in such a way that it continues to be a great place to live, work, play, and raise a family,” Council Member Buley said. “I’ve been blessed to experience that with my wife and children over the last two decades we’ve lived here.”

Buley has served the community as a volunteer on the St. John the Baptist School’s advisory Finance Committee, coaching basketball and softball at SJB, and countless volunteer hours during the years his son played Costa Mesa Little League.

Buley has been a civil litigation trial attorney for over 30 years, the last 25 years as owner of his own firm.

Click here for more information about Council Member Buley.

New Council Member Pettis was elected to represent District 6, where he has lived with his wife Kerry and three children for the last 13 years.

“I have long understood that there is a positive correlation between the strength of a community and the willingness of its residents to get involved,” Council Member Pettis said. “Involvement can be as simple as staying informed, or as major as philanthropic financial endeavors. I chose to run for elected office in Costa Mesa as a way to become involved in the community I call home.”

He is currently the Deputy Chief Nurse of Mental Health at the Long Beach Veterans Administration Medical Center and served on the VA’s Nurse Professional Practice Committee, where he developed, reviewed and enacted hospital policies for nursing professional practice.

Costa Mesa Prevails in Defending Sober Living Home Ordinance

On Wednesday, Dec. 4, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals unanimously upheld a jury verdict affirming the City of Costa Mesa’s sober living home ordinance in Ohio House, LLC. v. City of Costa Mesa.

“This decision of the Ninth Circuit is the culmination of the hard work and wisdom of City Councils, Planning Commissioners, City Staff, our City Attorney and outside counsel dating back over 12 years,” Mayor John Stephens said. “We have preserved the character of our neighborhoods while allowing for reasonable and appropriate care for those struggling with addiction.”

The Court concluded, as the jury had, that the City’s sober living home regulations are not discriminatory against the disabled. This verdict is a positive outcome for more than just Costa Mesa as many cities throughout the region have modeled their regulations after Costa Mesa’s ordinance.

“We are pleased that the Court of Appeals has upheld, yet again, the regulations the City created nearly 10 years ago to protect the City’s residential neighborhoods and the disabled who were being crowded into unsuitable living environments designed for profit, not to help the disabled,” City Attorney Kim Barlow said.

The City’s outside counsel, who argued the case in court, agreed.

“This is an important win for sensible land use regulation, for Costa Mesa residents and residents throughout California and the Ninth Circuit, and for balancing the needs of all residents, including the disabled,” said Costa Mesa’s appellate counsel Mary-Christine (M.C.) Sungaila.
